One of the oldest shamanic archetypes is that of the wounded healer – one who has been wounded discovers the cure for their ailment and is then able to help heal others who receive the same wound. So, the trick to incorporating this aspect of the shamanic perspective into your everyday life is extremely straightforward: heal yourself.

'shaman' is derived from the language of the Tungusic peoples of Siberia and literally means 'the one who sees in the dark' with implications that have to do with accessing higher spiritual knowledge and wisdom. To practice the ancient time-tested method of the shaman is to learn to open your inner vision to the world of things hidden- and in doing so you may enter into the deeper levels of reality of the unseen Universe where all the mysteries, ...

able to intentionally 're-geography' the focused concentration of their conscious awareness, transferring it into the normally invisible worlds of 'things hidden' that surround us everywhere and all the time. These are those same transpersonal realms that the traditional peoples call the 'spirit worlds', the 'dreamtime,' the 'other worlds,' or simply 'the sacred.'
